

LEGENDS OF MINIGOLF: THE FLAMINGO'S CHALLENGE

Casting sides

Written by Enoch Allred & John D. Moore
John D. Moore, director

JENNA

Early-to-mid-twenties. Female.

Jeff's girlfriend, who works hard to please those around her and keep the peace, while never betraying the toll that takes on her. She attends BYU, even though she's not exactly an active or even practicing Mormon. She's a dedicated student and also supports herself with a full-time job. She and Jeff met about a year ago while Jeff was dropped out and aimless. She helped him get his act together.

EXT. SUBURBAN STREET - DAY

In this scene, Jeff and Jenna are taking a walk after rehearsing a laughably bad with but earnest play that attempts to address the situation in the Middle East, in which their friend Chelsea is a castmember.

JEFF

So, I'm thinking it's like a good thing there aren't really any actual, like Jews or Muslims around Provo, because that shit could incite a race war.

JENNA

Well, the play's heart is in the right place, I guess.

JEFF

Maybe.

JENNA

At least they're trying to say or think about something.

JEFF

Maybe.

JENNA

I mean, you're right, it's horrible. I'm not gonna argue that, because seriously. But, I don't know, maybe it gets better after Chelsea's character leaves?

JEFF

Maybe?

JENNA

Yeah, you're right.

JEFF
Think we could leave then, too?

JENNA
When Chelsea's part is over? No.

JEFF
C'mon, why not?

JENNA
Y'know, we've gotta support her.

JEFF
That's what I'm suggesting--support her, not the play.

JENNA
I kind of agree with you, but it's good to support community theater.

JEFF
We'll have paid our money. That's good enough, I'm sure.

JENNA
You know we can't do that. Imagine the insult.

JEFF (sighs)
I know, I know.

JENNA
(giggles)
The play is retarded, though.

JEFF
That's all I need to hear.

INT. JEFF AND TROY'S LIVING ROOM - NIGHT

In this scene, Jeff has skipped the play in question without notice, after promising both Jenna and Chelsea that he would be there. He made this decision at the last second, opting to practice minigolf until the last second and instead working on a paper.

Jeff has a couple of books open. He's typing on a laptop, sitting on the couch.

There's a knock on the door.

JEFF
Come in?

Jenna bursts into the apartment, dressed formally.

JENNA

Looks like you left this in the car.

Jenna tosses him his cell phone.

JEFF

Oh, hey, sorry I didn't call. Was the play any better than it read?

JENNA

How's the paper going?

JEFF

Oh, uh, nearly finished, I think.

JENNA

Took a little longer than you thought?

JEFF

Well, um, yeah.

Jenna glares at him.

JEFF

I mean, I think I can actually be finished in just a few min--

JENNA

What the hell, Jeff?

JEFF

What?

JENNA

How do you just skip out like that?

JEFF

I--I had to write this paper. It's due tomorrow.

JENNA

You also had to be there for Chelsea tonight. Like no one's going to notice that you sluffed it.

JEFF

Well, I'm trying to keep my grades up, you know. I mean, this is ultimately more important.

JENNA

There would be time for it if you wouldn't--oh, my god.

Jenna fixes her eyes on Jeff's tie.

JEFF

Oh, your god, what?

JENNA

You were playing that damned game right up till the play, weren't you?

JEFF

No.

JENNA

Yeah, you started the paper at the absolute last second. Am I right?

JEFF

Okay, fine, I did, but I had to do this paper.

JENNA

You know who else came to the play? Maybe, like, ten, twelve other people. Chelsea needed your support tonight.

JEFF

Right, like everyone's supporting me with my mini-golf challenge.

JENNA

That's different!

JEFF

How?

JENNA

Your mini-golf "challenge" is stupid.

JEFF

Chelsea's play is stupid! You said so.

JENNA

That's different. And if it weren't for your stupid thing, you would have been able to go.

JEFF

The paper.

JENNA

Forget about the paper! You had a choice, you made it, and it's just rude, and I had to apologize to Chelsea for you, and I don't like doing that, because I knew exactly why you couldn't make it, because it was your choice to choose mini-golf over our friend.

5

JEFF

No, it's not about Chelsea.

JENNA

Well, it sure looks that way.

JEFF

I'm sorry. But I had this paper.

JENNA

Fine. But I want you to call Chelsea and apologize to her yourself. I'm going.

JEFF

What?

JENNA

I'll call you later. Just call her, okay?

JEFF

Okay, fine.

JENNA

Bye.

Jenna leaves.